

Joint Networking Evening 30th November 2017

“Does a successful academic career go together with family life and private interests?”

Andrea Olschewski, Vice-Rector of the Medical University Linz, Director of the Ludwig Boltzmann Institute for Lung Vascular Research, Full Professor in Experimental Anaesthesiology and mother of one child will give input on how to positively combine various life domains. She will discuss career development and work, family and partnership, private interests and health, both from a medical and a private point of view.

- How to deal with conflicts between work and private (family) life under the current conditions of academia?
- Existing work-life options at universities and research institutions and how can we benefit from them?

DATE: Thursday, 30th Nov 2017, 18:00-21:30

PROGRAMME: 18:00 – 19:30 h Input by and discussion with: Andrea Olschewski and Ute Riedler
19:30 – 21:30 h Buffet and informal part

VENUE: VinziRast Dachatelier, Währingerstraße 19, 1090 Vienna, Entrance Restaurant “Mittendrin”

We aim to create a space to exchange experiences and talk about individual academic and private success strategies that are working for individual needs.

REGISTRATION:

We kindly ask for registration until 15th November 2017. Please let us know via e-mail to femail@univie.ac.at if you plan to attend.